

New Jersey's Do Not Call List is a welcome respite against the intrusion of telemarketers that used to call hourly from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily. Since list was established I receive maybe 3 or 4 unsolicited calls per week compared with 10 to 12. A ringing phone when one does not wish to be disturbed is an intrusion of privacy. Consumer need the right to opt-out from solitations and a tough do-not call list is an appropriate tool to protect that right.
